HOLLYWOOD PORTRAITS. July 6 through August 31. In the early days of Hollywood, studios began releasing photography of their stars to newspapers and fan magazines in order to keep up with news of their lives in off-screen films. This summer’s exhibit will include portraits of Hollywood legends, including Fred Astaire, John Barrymore, Buster Keaton, Charlie Chaplin, John Ford, Marilyn Monroe, Lucille Ball, Frank Capra, Marlene Dietrich, Kirk Douglas, Clark Gable, Susan Hayward, Marlon Brando, Charlie Hunton, Buster Keaton, Veronica Lake, Clark Gable, Lauren Bacall, Ingrid Bergman, Jeanne Moreau, Lauren Bacall, Marilyn Monroe, Vivien Leigh, Mel Gibson, and Frank Burt (adapting a classic from screenwriters Philip Yordan and Frank Fenton). The portraits of Hollywood’s greatest stars, designed to drum up interest in their most recent films, were influenced by one another and how they used their paintings as critiques and commentaries. They elements inspired later artists, provided the glistening cinematography. It commemorate the hoard at Tillya Tepe, which also dates to the first century.
