

Music by library audience favorite Tom Cavanagh

Vibe founder Alan Light is live at the library

Join us on Friday, February 8 at 7:30 p.m. for a visit by Alan Light, author of The Holy or the Broken: Leonard Cohen, Jeff Buckley, and the Unlikely Ascent of "Hallelujah" (Atria Books, December 2012).

When music legend Leonard Cohen first wrote and recorded "Hallelujah," it was for an album rejected by his longtime record label. Ten years later, charismatic newcomer Jeff Buckley reimagined the song for his much-anticipated debut album. Just three years later, Buckley would be dead, and "Hallelujah" still hadn't been released as a single. After two disappointing outings, how did one obscure song become an international anthem for human triumph and tragedy, a song each successive generation seems to feel they have discovered and claimed as uniquely their own?

Through in-depth interviews with its interpreters and the key figures who were there for its original recordings, acclaimed music journalist Alan Light follows the improbable journey of "Hallelujah" straight to the heart of popular culture. The Holy or the Broken gives insights into how great songs come to be and how they can be forever reinterpreted.

Alan Light was a senior editor at Rolling Stone, founding music editor and editor-in-chief of Vibe, and editor-in-chief of Spin. He has been a contributor for The New Yorker, GQ, Entertainment Weekly, Elle and the Oxford American.

The multi-talented Tom Cavanagh will provide live musical accompaniment. Books will be available for purchase and signing.

SoundSwap welcomes Arlon Bennett

On Wednesday, February 6 at 7:30 p.m., we'll welcome singer/songwriter Arlon Bennett to the library stage as the first performer in this year's SoundSwap series.

Arlon Bennett's presence in the folk/Americana scene is continually growing. While accumulating songwriting awards throughout North America, he has opened for such acts as Glenn Tilbrook (Squeeze), Jill Sobule, Michael Smith and Lesley Gore, and has performed with Livingston Taylor. Arlon was twice selected by Noel 'Paul' Stookey to perform in his Music2Life showcase, which features America's best songs of social consciousness. Arlon is equally proud that his lyrics to "The Ace in Grace" (from his 1999 debut Fountain of Dreams) were used in the official statue dedication of late tennis champion, humanitarian and personal hero Arthur Ashe.

On Summer's Voice, Arlon's third and latest release, he lets listeners eavesdrop on a conversation with a Vietnam veteran, go on a bus ride with Rosa Parks, and enjoy a red-light kiss on a third date – just a few of the themes of his ordinary yet extraordinary vignettes.

Recently, Arlon was invited to perform his song "Be the Change" in a concert lineup that also included Bruce Hornsby and Crosby, Stills & Nash. Arlon's music crossed into another field when the New York Mets chose the title track of Summer's Voice to be featured in a tribute video to Hall of Fame sportscaster Bob Murphy at Shea Stadium.

There's always something meaningful in Arlon's songs because he recognizes the power of music, and with that in mind, he frequently participates in fundraising efforts for numerous charitable causes. In live performances, Arlon's foot-tapping songs draw chills, laughs and the contemplative "hmm . . ." while he engages audiences with an All-American "aw-shucks" charisma that you don't see around too often.

His music comes from the heart. "It's the most rewarding way to communicate," says Arlon. "... and I wouldn't have it any other way."

Pianist Pei-Yao Wang appears with violist Veit Hertenstein on Sunday, February 10 at 3 p.m.

Moshe Gold speaks on James Joyce

The Friends of the Library announces its Edmund L. Epstein Memorial Lecture on Sunday, March 3 at 3 p.m.

Professor Ed Epstein was an ardent supporter of the Friends of the Library and an internationally known literary scholar who specialized in James Joyce. He was a long-time Port Washington resident known for his lectures at the library sponsored by FOL and the book discussion group he led.

The lecture, on a literary theme related to James Joyce, will be given by Dr. Moshe Gold of Fordham University, a friend and colleague of Mr. Epstein's.

Moshe Gold is associate professor and director of the writing program at Fordham's Rose Hill Campus. He holds a Ph.D. from Columbia University, and is co-editor of Joyce Studies Annual. His areas of interest include Modern British Literature, Literary & Cultural Theory and Film.

Robin J. Miller / Rhythms of a Faithful Journey

During February, the Art Advisory Council exhibits mixed media collage quilts by artist Robin J. Miller.

In July 2012, Robin retired from the NYC school system after more than thirty successful and joyous years of teaching. She was a special education teacher for the first half of her career and ended as a highly celebrated art educator. During her years as a teacher of visual arts, Robin became a facilitator for NYC's Blueprint for the Arts and earned the honors of both NYC and NYS Region 8 Art Educator of the Year. She has conducted art workshops for teachers across the city in many venues including the Metropolitan Museum of Art and MOMA.

In 1992 she created a print ad for Pepsi honoring Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. under the pseudonym r.j. scribbles. She is currently a resident artist at the African American Museum of Nassau County in Hempstead, where her poem and tempera illustrations of a Ugandan village are on display.

Robin specializes in African American Heritage art and poetry.

Her mixed media collage quilts span from slavery to presidency. She is working on two books to accompany this collection while the museum executes plans for this exhibit to travel across the country.

Robin recently received an award from the Talladega College Alumni Association of Greater New York for outstanding contributions in art education, innovative techniques, volume of work, her passion and creativity with African American heritage art and poetry.

Share your life stories

The Port Washington Public Library, in partnership with the Great Neck Senior Center, offers an opportunity for our residents to share their stories on Wednesday, March 6 at 1 p.m. at the library. You will have plenty of time to get a head start on writing your memoir, which can be a memorable gift to your family and friends. Sue Salko and Ron Gross are our facilitators. Sue Salko, LMSW, regularly presents movement workshops and creative programs for the Great Neck Senior Center. Ron Gross, co-chair of the University Seminar on Innovation in Education at Columbia University, has conducted the monthly Socrates Salon at the Great Neck Library for 20 years.

I Can't Die But Once: The Life of Harriet Tubman

Harriet Tubman, best known for her role as a conductor on the Underground Railroad, has been immortalized in the minds of Americans for 130 years. Though she is one of the most famous women in our nation's history, we have come to know her mainly through fictionalized biographies written for school children. The reality of Harriet Tubman's life is far more compelling.

Gwendolyn Quezairé-Presutti separates reality from myth to reconstruct a richer and more accurate historical account of Tubman's life at Sandwiched In on Friday, February 22 at 12:10 p.m.

Music Advisory Council welcomes violist and pianist

Violist Veit Hertenstein performs selection from Schumann, Prokofiev and others, accompanied by pianist Pei-Yao Wang on Sunday, February 10 at 3 p.m. This Music Advisory Council-sponsored concert is funded by donations to the Port Washington Library Foundation.

First Prize Winner of the 2011 Young Concert Artists International Auditions, Hertenstein has already garnered recognition for his exciting stage presence and virtuoso artistry. Highlights this season debut include recitals at the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum, the Buffalo Chamber Music Society, the Washington Center for the Performing Arts, and the Levine School of Music. Veit will give performances at the Young Artists in Concert in Switzerland and the Obernai Chamber Music Festival in France. In summer 2012, he performed at the Davos Festival as well as the Usedom Festival and the Festspiele Mecklenburg-Vorpommern in Germany.

Mr. Hertenstein will make his New York debut at Merkin Hall in the Peter Jay Sharp Concert and his Washington, D.C. debut at the Kennedy Center's Terrace Theater this season presented by the Young Concert Artists Series. He was also awarded YCA's Slomovic Prize and seven performance prizes. Mr. Hertenstein has participated in the Marlboro Festival, the Menuhin Festival in Gstaad and the Verbier Festival in 2009 and 2010, where he was awarded the Henri Louis de la Grange Special Viola Prize. He appeared at Seiji Ozawa's International Music Academy in Rolle, Switzerland in 2008. As a guest artist, Mr. Hertenstein has appeared with the Trio Wanderer, the Modigliani Quartet, the Ysaye Quartet, cellist Valentin Erben of the Alban Berg Quartet and has performed chamber music and conducted educational outreach with the violinist Midori in Japan in 2010.

Born in 1985 in Augsburg, Germany, Mr. Hertenstein began studying the violin and piano at the age of 5 and switched to the viola when he was 15. At the age of 19, he studied with Nicolas Corti, violist of the Amati Quartet at Zurich Hochschule der Künste. In 2009 he earned an artist diploma at the Haut Ecole de Musique in Geneva working with violist Nobuko Imai and with Miguel da Silva, violist of the Ysaye Quartet. He plays a 1701 David Tecchler viola.

Pianist Pei-Yao Wang has established herself as a prominent soloist and chamber musician.

She made her official orchestral debut with the Taipei symphony Orchestra at age 8 and has since performed as soloist with the Stamford Symphony, Orlando Symphony, South Fingerlake Orchestra and Taipei Philharmonic. She also has performed throughout the United States, Canada, Europe and Asia; including venues such as the Carnegie, Avery Fisher, Alice Tully, 92nd Street Y, Merkin Hall in New York City, the Kennedy Center in Washington D.C. Salle des Varietes in Monte-Carlo, Suntory Hall in Tokyo and the National Concert Hall in Taipei, Taiwan. As a chamber musician, Pei-Yao has collaborated with members of the Guarneri, Orion, Chicago, Mendelssohn and Miro quartets, and has performed with other distinguished artists such as Claude Frank, Hilary Hahn, David Shifrin and Mitsuko Uchida. She is also regularly invited to perform at festivals including Marlboro, Caramoor, Norfolk, La Jolla, Ravinia and Bridgehampton in New York. She is currently a member of Chamber Music Society Two at Lincoln Center, a program to promote emerging young artists.

Born in Taipei, Taiwan, Pei-Yao was the youngest pianist ever to receive the overall First Prize in the Taiwan National Piano Competition, at the age of eight. Four years later, she was invited to study at the Curtis Institute of Music, where she worked with Seymour Lipkin and institute director Gary Graffman. She then studied with Claude Frank at Yale University, where she received the Master of Music degree, and also pursued a concentration in architecture. She currently resides in New York City.

Health Advisory Council encourages your participation

Go Red for Women on February 1

Are you the type that plans what to wear for the whole week or do you play it by ear every morning? Either way, on Friday, February 1, join with the library's Health Advisory Council and the American Heart Association, and plan to wear red to show your commitment to fighting heart disease in women.

There's a lot of talk about inequality between men and women, but one area in particular where women are ahead of men in record numbers: heart disease. It is the leading killer of women and is more deadly than all forms of cancer.

Visit goredforwomen.org to arm yourself with the facts, assess your risk, learn how to live healthy, get involved and show your support.

I Hid It Under the Sheets:

Growing Up With Radio

On Friday, February 1 at 12:10 p.m. Gerald Eskenazi, who has recorded 8,000 bylines with The New York Times, takes a look at the impact that a little box filled with tubes had on the generation who grew up in the '40s and '50s.

The author of 16 books, including one on radio, Eskenazi will recall the golden days (and nights) when Superman, The Lone Ranger, The Jack Benny Show and Mary Noble, Backstage Wife held America in thrall.

Consider a seat on the Library Board of Trustees

Public libraries have grown from quiet repositories of books to become hubs of community activity offering career information, access to computers, the latest DVDs, CDs, audio books and E-books, and a variety of public interest programs.

Would you like to have a voice in charting the direction of your library and serve your community? If so, consider serving as a library trustee.

PWPL trustees serve 5-year terms; meetings take place the third Wednesday evening of each month.

Some of the responsibilities of a Library Trustee:

- Create and develop the mission of the library;

- Secure adequate funding for the library's service program;
- Exercise fiduciary responsibility for the use of public and private funds;
- Adopt policies and rules regarding library governance and use.

Trustee petitions will be available in the administration office beginning February 5. Your petition must be returned by March 8, 2013.

The election of trustees and the annual budget vote takes place April 9.

Please contact library administration at 883-4400, Ext. 101 if you have questions.

Love is in the Air:

Romantic Novels for Teens

Check out some of these books that celebrate love, with stories of crushes, lost loves, misguided infatuations and, of course, romance!

Lies Beneath by Anne Greenwood Brown. As the only brother in a family of mermaids, Calder White is expected to seduce Lily, the daughter of the man believed to have killed the mermaids' mother, but he begins to fall in love with her just as Lily starts to suspect the legends about the lake are true.

Blink Once by Cylin Busby. West, a high school senior with everything going for him until an accident leaves him paralyzed, connects with Olivia, a fellow hospital patient who seems to understand his dreams and nightmares, but who also has a secret.

The Story of Us by Deb Caletti. After jilting two previous fiancés, Cricket's mother is finally marrying the right man, but as wedding attendees arrive, complications arise for Cricket involving her own love life, her beloved dog Jupiter, and her mother's reluctance to marry.

Dying to Know You by Aidan Chambers. Struggling through his dyslexia to try to fulfill his girlfriend Fiorella's request for a letter revealing his secret self, 18-year-old Karl asks Fiorella's favorite author for help.

Lovetorn by Kavita Daswani. Having just moved from India to Los Angeles, 16-year-old Shalini struggles to fit in but the real challenge comes when she begins falling in love with an American boy, despite being engaged since the age of three.

My Life Next Door by Huntley Fitzpatrick. When Samantha, the 17-year-old daughter of a wealthy, state senator, falls in love with the boy next door, whose family is just struggling to make ends meet, she discovers a different way to live.

What Boys Really Want by Pete Hautman. The crumbling friendship between writer Lita and entrepreneurial Adam is compromised by unexpected jealousies over each other's romantic entanglements, stolen blog posts, and a premature offer to sell a new self-help book.

Ask the Passengers by A.S. King. Imagining that she is sending love to passengers in airplanes flying overhead, Astrid Jones struggles with her family's dysfunction and hides her love for another girl.

Second Chance Summer by Morgan Matson. After Taylor's father receives devastating news, her parents decide the family will spend the summer at their old lake house, where Taylor discovers the people she thought she left behind are still around.

Pizza, Love, and Other Stuff That Made Me Famous by Kathryn Williams. Although 16-year-old Sophie has grown up working in her family's restaurant, she is not prepared to compete on the new food reality show when her best friend Alex convinces her to audition.
